

THE SITE

A free, multimedia music site with content from NPR and station partners, NPR Music offers original programs (All Songs Considered, JazzSet, World Cafe), live concerts, studio and video sessions, interviews, reviews, lists and blogs—aggregated and curated for audiences to explore, experience and enjoy. The site expands constantly, with sections dedicated to rock/pop/folk, classical, jazz and blues, world and urban music. More than 300 new features are added each month.

THE PARTNERS

NPR Music with KEXP and KPLU Seattle · KUT Austin · WBGO Newark · WDUQ Pittsburgh · WFUV New York · WGBH Boston · WGUC Cincinnati · WKSU/Folk Alley, Kent, Ohio · WNYC New York · WXPB Philadelphia · and The Current from Minnesota Public Radio.

THE CONTENT

A-Z Artist Index

Searchable content, with entries for more than 5,000 musicians.

Live In Concert

Since 2005, NPR Music has offered and archived hundreds of concerts by such artists as Tom Waits, The Decemberists, Lang Lang and Ravi Coltrane. Whether it's Radiohead in a massive stadium or Tom Jones at Bob Boilen's Tiny Desk, no venue is too big or small.

Exclusive First Listen

Pre-release full-album streams from the best in the business, including Rosanne Cash, Joanna Newsom, Lionel Loueke, Bob Dylan and Bruce Springsteen.

Lists

From a weekly five-song jazz sampler to a series on 50 essential classical works, curated listening experiences are a thrill for those with an ear for exploration.

Blogs

Go behind the scenes of All Songs Considered; follow the "Monitor Mix" musings of writer and musician Carrie Brownstein, formerly of Sleater-Kinney; and have an ongoing conversation about jazz, with "A Blog Supreme."

The Inspiration

A celebration of great music in every genre, NPR Music is an industry leader in music discovery, while strengthening NPR's commitment to public service.