This map is in honor of all of the Indigenous Nations of Mexico. It seeks to encourage people—Native and non-Native—to remember that unmarked history was once a vast land of autonomous Native peoples who called Mexico by many different names according to their languages and peoples. To learn & stand in the pride of the documents of these peoples brings an awareness of Indigenous history and reminds us that they gave and continue to fight valiantly to preserve the way of life.

We recognize, respect, and honor the Indigenous Nations and Tribes of Mexico, the ancestors, and our relatives. This map is dedicated to the memory and memory of all those who have come before us and to the struggle against the dispossession of our land and our people. This map is a visual representation of our history, culture, and struggles. We recognize and honor the Indigenous Nations and Tribes of Mexico, the ancestors, and our relatives. This map is dedicated to the memory and memory of all those who have come before us and to the struggle against the dispossession of our land and our people. This map is a visual representation of our history, culture, and struggles.